

The Prairie Light Review

---

Volume 40 | Number 1

Article 41

---

Fall 12-1-2017

Clocks and Time

Florence M. Zielinski
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr>

---

Recommended Citation

Zielinski, Florence M. (2017) "Clocks and Time," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 40 : No. 1 , Article 41.
Available at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol40/iss1/41>

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact orenick@cod.edu.

Clocks and Time

Florence M. Zielinski

The day I retired I put my watch away.
I also decided that clocks
would no longer have any influence on my life and days.

The first year was one of bliss.
Ah, I retired for the joy of this!
No alarms woke me from my deep sleep,
No stressful minutes were ticking to remind me of appointments to keep.

No commitments were spelled out to exact minutes
of fleeting time with promises in it.
My time was mine. I ruled the clock.
But time and life delivers shocks.

I am again watching clocks and the clocks have gone back on the shelves.
The alarms are set and I must follow
where time and life sends me tomorrow.

How can I tell the appointment is now,
or when to take the pill that is due?
The clock dictates time and I must follow
where time and life sends me – today and tomorrow.